Congregational Health Nursing

Congregational Health Nursing is defined as a "unique, specialized practice of professional nursing which focused on the promotion of health within the context of the values, belief and practice of a faith community"

BASIC PREPARATION FOR CONGREGATIONAL HEALTH NURSES

This course is offered through a cooperative relationship between the Mississippi College School of Nursing in Clinton, MS, the Mississippi Baptist Convention, and Baptist Health Systems, Inc.. This course is based on the endorsed curriculum for parish nurse education published by the International Parish Nurse Resource Center. The parish nurse role is a health-promotion, risk-reduction, disease-prevention nursing role that focuses on care of the whole person, holding the spiritual dimensions to be central to the practice.

OBJECTIVES

The participant will:

- Describe the integration of faith and health as central to the congregational health nurse role
- Demonstrate knowledge, attitude and skills to practice as a beginning congregational health nurse.
- Value an intercollegial peer system of support.
- Identify a network for continuing development and support.
